WILLIAMS CAPTURED BY BURNS

MAN WANTED FOR FORGERY IN DAYTONA LANDED IN THE WEST

PREVIOUS CHARGES IN LOS ANGELES, HOWEVER, WILL PROBABLY KEEP HIM THERE
SEVERAL YEARS.

James Williams, the one-eyed bogus check operator who started trouble for himself in Daytona by working the Merchants bank for $50 in November, has been captured in California, according to advices received here, but there is little chance for him to be brought back here for trial for some time, at least.
The Merchants bank today received the following letter from the Atlanta office of the Burns Detective agency:

"We beg to advise that we have your man, James Williams, in custody at Petaluma, California.
There are previous charges against him at Los Angeles, and it is more than likely he will receive the limit of the law.

"Williams has served one term in the Colorado state prison for forgery, being released only last June.

"We would be glad to have him brought back to Florida and sentenced for the crime against your institution, and advise that you lodge
a retainer against him with the California authorities when he is convicted. We will advise you of the final outcome of the case."

THE DAILY MARKET REPORT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Stocks opened irregular with the gains and losses about equal. Rubber was a point higher and Steel and Beet Sugar were fractions higher. Woolworth, St. Paul and Pennsylvania were a shade lower. Late in the forenoon stocks became strong, the specialties making good gains. Reading, Copper and St. Paul showed over a point gain.

The Chicago Markets—
CHICAGO, Jan. 9 — May wheat,
90½c; May pork, $18.25; lard
$9.80; ribs, $9.77; hogs five higher and cattle steady.

The Southern express teams caused a flurry of excitement at the railroad depot Wednesday afternoon, by starting on a race for liberty
through the crowded yard. Fortunately the wheels of the wagons locked together and this so impeded the runaways that they were captured before they could reach the gateway to Volusia avenue, but it was a stirring scene to see the two animals plugging along, dragging the heavy wagons which were tightly locked together. The horses made their dash from the express office at the southern end of the depot.

The steamer Biscayne started on her return trip to Jacksonville this afternoon.

FLOODS CAUSE DAMAGE AND SUFFERING

CREST OF FLOOD IS REACHED
AND WATER IS NOW RECEDING

WESTERN STATE PENITENTIARY ENTIRELY SURROUNDED BY WATER AND ONE MAN NEARLY DROWNS.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9—After doing damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, the crest of the flood was reached today and the waters have begun to slowly recede.
The western state penitentiary is entirely surrounded by water and one man narrowly escaped drowning.
The flood and cold weather has caused intense suffering among the poor people of the city.

Much Damage at Wheeling—WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 9—Damage to the extent of $1,000,000 has been done by the floods in this vicinity. The weather is intensely cold and there is much suffering.

PARIS, Jan. 9—England and France have agreed to support the claim of Greece for a Turkish island in the Aegean sea and the powers were so notified today.

Turkey was also notified through the Turkish ambassador in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin B. French of Boston, Mass., who have been coming to Daytona for a number of years and for several seasons past have been guests at the Morgan hotel, arrived Wednesday evening and are again at that hostelry. Their friends will be glad to see Mrs.
French again this winter, as she was not able to come to Daytona last winter, owing to poor health, although Mr. French spent the season at the Morgan as usual.

TUG SONOMA ARRIVES AT GUANTANAMO

GOES THROUGH WITH TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH STORM FRIDAY

NO NEWS RECEIVED OF REPAIR
SHIP PANTHER AND ALL
NAVAL VESSELS ARE CONTIN-UING THEIR SEARCH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 —The tug
Sonoma arrived at Guantanamo, Cuba, this morning, according to advices received by the navy department. The tug was ahead of the repair ship Panther and the crew of the tug knows nothing of the whereabouts of the Panther.

The tug encountered a terrific storm Friday and battled for hours with the heavy sea. All her life-boats and superstructure were carried away by the waves.

All naval vessels have been ordered to continue the search for the Panther.

W. E. Donlan and family of Weston, W. Va., who last winter occupied Miss Jolley's cottage on South Palmetto avenue, are again in the city for the season, being located at the Bethel rooming house, North Ridgewood avenue. The party started for Daytona in Mr. Donlan's car, but at Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Donlan and the children, with the exception of the youngest son, left the automobile and came on by train, reaching here several days ahead of Mr. Don-lan, his son and the chauffeur, who arrived Monday. Mr. Donlan last winter conducted a grocery store in the Henry Van Dorn building on Myrtle avenue, a nephew assisting him in the business.

MUST PAY POLL TAX AT ONCE

VOTERS HAVE TWO DAYS TO QUALIFY FOR CITY ELECTION

FULL SET OF OFFICERS TO BE CHOSEN AT REGULAR ELEC-TION TO BE HELD 12TH OF
NEXT MONTH.

To be qualified to cast his ballot in the regular city election next month every voter must have paid his poll tax for the year 1913 by next Saturday.

Because of the small number of voters who qualified for the special election this week it is evident there are a large number of the voters who must hurry to be qualified for the regular election next month.

The city election this year will be held February 12, and the state law requires that all voters must have paid their poll taxes for the year on or before the second Saturday of the month preceding the election. There are but two days left for those voters who have not paid their taxes and desire to cast their ballots at the coming city election.

At the election next month the voters must choose some man for mayor to succeed Henry T. Titus, a clerk to succeed A. McF. Porter, a collector to succeed J. W. Booth, an assessor to succeed D. F. Randolph, a treasurer to succeed F. N. Conrad, three aldermen for two years to succeed E. J. Mills, E. T. Conrad and Lew Smith and one alderman for one year to succeed S. W. O'Brien, who was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of James Rix, resigned.

Up to the present time no candidates for any of these offices have made public announcements of their candidacy.

NOT HER FIRST APPEARANCE

Well Meaning Church Woman Unfortunate in Extending Welcome, as Pastor Had Counseled.

It is embarrassing sometimes, this thing of sudden religious zeal; that is, if you haven't made it a regular business. Witness the mistake made some time ago by a good woman who was a regular attendant at a church down on Chestnut street, says the Louisville Times.

One Sunday morning her pastor preached an inspiring sermon on the subject of welcoming the "Stranger Within Thy Gates." He urged upon his membership the duty of giving a cordial greeting to strangers who happened in at that church.

This good woman was much impressed with his remarks. As she turned around to leave the church, she discovered an unfamiliar face in the pew immediately behind her. With a radiant smile she extended her hand. "I'm glad to see you out this morning," she said.

"Thank you," replied the stranger with a merry twinkle in her eyes. "Do you come often?" sweetly asked the good woman.

The stranger smiled. "I have been occupying this pew for the past seven years," she said.

There was an embarrassed silence, and then the good woman turned and started out. It was noticeable that she made no further attempt to greet any stranger that morning.

In the Prohibition State.

"Got any gasoline, mister?" asked Dubbleigh, drawing up alongside of a Maine garage.

"Waal no, I hain't got no gasoline as gasoline," said the man in charge, "but as constable o' this here town I made a raid on Si Wiggins' grocery last night, and I got some bottled stuff as 'll carry ye just as far if ye've a mind to give it a trial. Fur as the smell goes, it's about the same thing, I reckon."—Harper's Weekly.

Protest.

"The boys seem discouraged about makin' garden," said Mrs. Cornstossel.

"Yep," replied her husband. "They turned up a few square feet of dirt an' then held a meetin' an' passed resolutions to the effect that it was a shame to spoil such a fine fishin'-worm pasture by plantin' it full o' potatoes an' sweet corn."

Defiant.

"There is a place awaiting you in the abode of future punishment," said the man who, even though angry, strives to be discreet of speech.

"It don't scare me none," replied the janitor. "I'll be kind o' glad to get some place where the tenants never complain because the radiators are cold."

RIDDLES ARE OLD AS TIME

But Boys Are Said to Be More Fond of Them Than Girls—First of Which There Is Record.

It is a curious fact that boys are more fond of conundrums than girls are.

While all conundrums are riddles, all riddles are not conundrums, the term conundrum being used more for riddles which are based on some fancied resemblance, such as, "Why is a pig looking out of a second-story window like the moon?" and the answer is because it looks round. If anyone objects that the moon does not always look round, you can reply, "Neither does the pig."

Two of the most famous riddles are at least 3,000 years old. The first of which there is any record is found in the fourteenth chapter of Judges, and was made up by Samson after his fight with a lion. He offered a prize to anyone who could solve it within seven days, but no one got it. It is recorded that his wife pestered him to tell her the answer, but he absolutely refused until the time was up, and many think that he never intended to tell it at all.

Bishop Whately never told the answer to any of his puzzles. If they were correctly guessed he would acknowledge that the solution was right; but if no one got the answer he kept it to himself, and some of his enigmas are still unsolved.

One of the chief entertainments in ancient times at any domestic gathering, such as a marriage feast, was asking riddles, and many persons spent their lives in devising them and selling them to the rich and great, just as some public men now get others to write their speeches for them.

Misunderstood.

"What is your occupation?" asked the good woman, as she handed out the fourth roast-beef sandwich.

"I am an ex-pounder, madam. My delivery has become impaired, and I find it very difficult to get a bout," answered the weary traveler.

Thereupon the one-time pugilist took his leave, and the good woman murmured, "Poor fellow!"—Judge.

Elaborate Apology.

"What do you mean by waving that red flag and stopping the train?" asked the irate engineer.

"You wrong us," replied Meandering Mike. "We was holdin' a little meetin'. What you saw was de new anarchist version of de Chautauqua salute."

Chambermaid Music.

"Why do you object to hotel orchestras?"

"Because," replied the musician, "their programs usually sound as if they had been selected to please the bell boys and chambermaids."

Tale of the Sea.

Seafaring people can generally quote plenty of instances to show how ill luck dogs a captain once it has claimed him. I know of many such (writes H. W.), but the most curious case is connected with a small island or large rock in the Mediterranean. There is, or was, according to report, a man living on it. He had a goat which fed on the very limited verdure of the place, and from flotsam he made himself a hut. The crews of passing ships would point out the smoke from his fire, though I confess I never could discern it myself. The story is that he was a ship's captain who was twice wrecked on this lonely place and rescued by passing vessels. One night he found his vessel pined up for the third time. His disgust was not lessened to find it was the same rock. His crew were rescued as before, but the captain refused to leave. He said it was no use. Fate would only send him back again, so he would stay where he was. I have sailed the Mediterranean in many different ships, but the story has always been told without variation.—Manchester Guardian.

Worse Than English Sparrow.

Rabbits were originally introduced into Australia by a squatter, near Melbourne, who thought that the sight of them would remind him of home. They did, but they cost him $250,000 before they were done with him, and that little reminiscence is costing the colonies $3,500,000 per annum. A pair of rabbits in five years are capable of producing a progeny of 20,000, and in Australia they seem to have acted up to their capacity.

STATE HAPPENINGS

News from Fair Florida Briefly Told

Dr. Lair has just finished setting out 10,000 lettuce plants on his place at Crystal Springs.

A fiddlers' convention will take place in Fort Meade tomorrow. All the fiddlers in south Florida have been invited to attend.

At a recent meeting of the city council in St. Petersburg it was decided to have all the streets there marked so strangers would know what street they were walking on. Posts five inches square and two feet high will be used for this, the name of the street being painted on the post.

Callie Garrison was instantly killed and her companion, Ludwig Smith, both colored, was seriously injured by coming in contact with a live electric light wire at Ocala. The accident occurred within a block of the electric light plant and was due to a broken wire, which had fallen across the sidewalk. The man was taken to the hospital and has but a slight chance of recovery.

An accident occurred at Quincy Monday afternoon, which within a few hours resulted in the death of son of Charles Meiner, Quincy's well known and highly esteemed baker. Young Meiner was in the rear of his father's bakery sawing wood on a disc saw, which was being run by a gasoline engine, and by some means was caught in the saw which severed his right arm entirely off near his body.

J. K. Cheyney, president of the Tarpon Springs board of trade, has received information from the government that six beacon lights will be placed in position in the Anclote river which will enable ships to use the government deep water channel, at all hours of the day or night. The lack of lights has proven a great handicap to the sponge and other commercial industries there.

E. B. Johnson has the honor of making the first shipment this season of Manatee county celery, ten crates going out Tuesday; it is understood that it brought a very satisfactory price. The quality of the celery this year in the Manatee district is excellent and the indications are that the growers will have comfortable bank accounts at the end of the season.—Manatee Record.

The city planning and beautification committee of the board of trade has caused to be set four water oak trees on the south side of the court house square, where shade is now lacking, and 11 trees of a similar kind in the grass plots provided in University avenue, east of that thoroughfare's intersection with East Main street. This is but the beginning of a campaign of work undertaken by the board of trade, the intention being to add to Gainesville's beauty in every possible manner.—Gainesville Sun.

A Tampa dispatch says: Anna Roberta Chastin, a young white girl, 14 years old, died in a local hospital from the effects of a gunshot she received at her home in Seffner. Her 11-year old brother was the innocent cause of her death. The two children were standing close together. The lad unbreached the gun, then snapped it together and in some way it discharged the load, shooting away a portion of his sister's jaw. She was brought here at once for medical treatment and died today. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Chastin.

A Pensacola Dispatch says: The pleasure yacht May, a 40-ton craft, of New Orleans, is on the gulf beach west of Ft. McRae, where she was blown during the storm of Thursday night, while other vessels reaching port, report encountering a storm in the gulf that attained a high velocity, the waves frequently breaking over the vessels. The yacht was on her way from Pensacola to New Orleans, and was caught in the storm when about two miles from the mouth of the harbor. She could not stand the beach where she still remains. A the terrific seas, and was dashed upon the beach where she still remains. A number of other vessels received slight damage but nothing of a serious nature has thus far been reported.

WELL DEFIES SKILL OF MAN

Engineers Unable to Confine Marvelous Flow of Gas in Transylvania, Hungary.

There are wells of many kinds: those which gush out of the earth, those which furnish water to surrounding populations, wells that are scarcely damp, and wells that periodically inundate the neighborhood in which they are found. But of all the wells in existence probably none compare in interest with a gas well in Hungary.

This well is situated in Transylvania, and the peculiarity of it is that it is not seen but heard. The gas escapes by means of an iron tube with such dreadful force as to produce a noise which makes it impossible to hear the human voice within a considerable radius.

Many and diverse attempts have been made to regulate and utilize the output of gas, but so far the only device which has succeeded has been to put an iron tube of 25 centimeters in diameter into the earth. Through this the gas has been escaping now for nearly three years. Engineers from various countries have been conducted to the spot and have thought out ingenious ways to make the gas available and to stop the dreadful noise caused by its escape. Every plan has failed. On one occasion the problem was believed to have been solved, but it was soon found that the gas had merely been turned aside in its course and was escaping in the same manner in adjacent territory after having followed a track for some distance below the surface.

The gas comes through the iron tube with the velocity of a cannon ball and it is estimated that there is a daily loss of a million of cubic meters, the value of which amounts to $6,000.—Harper's Weekly.

LONG USEFULNESS AT AN END

Some Would Have Thought Vase Had Done Good Service, but Not So Mrs. Spicer.

When Miss Ann Pickett dropped in on her neighbor, Mrs. Spicer, and found her moping over the fragments of a gift vase, Miss Ann sympathized generously. "It must have been quite a costly vase," she said, looking admiringly at the pieces.

"No, it only cost six bits," Mrs. Spicer acknowledged. "Tain't that I feel so bad about."

"Maybe it was a gift that you prized because of associations," Mrs. Spicer shook her head. "Jim and I bought it over in Tompkinsville a long time ago; I prized it because it was such a saving to the family. The first year we had it I kept it on the front shelf for a general ornament; then when Jim's birthday came and I hadn't anything else handy to give, I gave him the vase for his own. Next Christmas, instead of paying out good money to buy something new, he gave it back to me for a Christmas present; then I gave it to Jim junior on his birthday, and he gave it to Sue Belle on hers."

"The next spring all the kinfolks got up a birthday party for old Aunt Sallie Spicer, and we took her the vase; after she'd kept it a good bit, she gave it to Jim's sister Jane for a wedding present, and afterwards Jane gave it to me and Jim when we had our china wedding. I was counting on giving it to Jim again on his next birthday, and now here it is smashed to flinders."

"I tell you, Miss Ann, it most makes me cry to think of losing such a useful family article—so near Jim's birthday, too!"—Youth's Companion.

Women Anxious to Serve.
More than twice as many women as could be used applied for enlistment in the Women's Sick and Wounded Convoy corps, the newest adjunct to the British army. The corps takes part in practice drills, makes its own camp, does stretcher work and otherwise gets practical training for the regular service. When enlisting the women accepted by the recruiting officer receive the king's shilling, which binds the bargain and makes the woman legally obliged to serve as part of the military establishment of the United Kingdom.

TASK FINDS THEM PREPARED

Men Who Do Great Things, It Will Be Discovered, Have Looked Forward to the Work.

There are a great number of stories of men who have seemed to do a great thing in a casual way. It will invariably be found that they have not only been making ample preparations of study, discipline, and experience, but they have constantly tested their capacity, as a wrestler tests his, by bouts with all the strong men he can meet.

When a man does a great thing there are some people who always will set it down to luck rather than to his capacity, but it is an interesting thing that a man may have such a stand-in, as 't were, with this fickle and tricky thing. It is quite common to hear capable people say: "O. I am always lucky." They are really in a measure unconscious of the certainties of their capabilities.

The world is just beginning to wake up to the fact that natural resources in the way of ability have been wasted or monopolized as great natural physical resources have been. The psychologist and the sociologist are doing what they can to make this fact understood. The lesson that men with all sorts of handicaps have attained greatness has not until recently been read aright. We have seen nothing but the phenomenal in these examples. As a matter of fact, the handicap has in many cases brought to the front the grit of the man or woman as nothing else could have done, yet we are prone to believe that such exceptional ability will out.

One-Man Structure.

The biggest one-man structure in England is St. Vitus church, near Coventry. James Green, a native of that city, not only worked the stones used in it, but with the help of a single laborer, placed them all in position, and, in fact, constructed the whole of it, from foundation to turrets. How long it took him to accomplish this feat is not clear. He is said to have been engaged on the task for 40 years, but the interval which elapsed between the demolition of the old church and the opening of the present one was only seven years. At all events, Green's "record," like many others in connection with building, will, we may be sure, stand for generations.—Wide World Magazine.

Jupiter's Moons.

One of the greatest discoveries of science is due to observation of the eclipses of Jupiter's moons. It was found that when the earth was in the part of its orbit nearest to Jupiter these eclipses occurred 16 minutes earlier than when it was in the furthestmost part; whereas by all rules of astronomy they should have occurred at the same minute each time. It was deduced from this that light was not instantaneous, and consequently took 16 minutes to traverse the diameter of the earth's orbit, a distance of about 200,000,000 miles, thus giving to light a velocity of 186,000 miles a second, which was accurately shown later by other experiments.

Coming of Autumn.

Sometimes autumn may be perceived even in the early days of July. There is no other feeling like that caused by this faint, doubtful yet real perception, or rather prophecy, of the year's decay, so deliciously sweet and sad at the same time.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Historic Blackguards

By
Albert Payson Terhune

King John, Who Did a Great Deed in Spite of Himself

A LEAN man, clad in royal robes and walking with a shambling gait, entered his palace on the afternoon of June 15, 1215, followed by a crowd of laughing courtiers. He and his attendants seemed vastly amused over something that had just happened and which they professed to regard as a fine joke.

But the moment the regally clad man reached his private apartments in the palace, away from the eyes of the public, his mask of false gaiety was cast aside. He hurled himself upon the floor, screaming, raving and howling fearful blasphemies, foaming at the mouth and biting like a mad dog at the rushes that strewed the floor.

Nor was this burst of insane fury without an excuse. For the man was a tyrant; and that day had been forced to sign the death-warrant of tyranny. He was John, king of England. More than a century and a half had passed since William the Conqueror had won England, beginning the blend of Norman and Saxon races and giving the English a new line of kings and nobility. Henry II., king of England, had several sons, all of whom hated their father and at various times conspired against him. John was the youngest. From his poverty he became known as "Lackland." The eldest son, Geoffrey, died during Henry's lifetime, leaving one son, little Prince Arthur. Geoffrey's next youngest brother, Richard (known as "Lion Heart"), became king of England at Henry's death. He spent nearly all his ten-year reign fighting in other countries, and died childless.

During Richard's absence from England John had tried to seize the crown for himself. On Richard's return he had to fly for his own life before the wrath of the brother he had striven to supplant. Richard, however, forgave him, and named him as heir to the throne. On "Lion Heart's" death John became king of England in 1199. Some of the nobles tried to make his nephew, young Prince Arthur, king in John's place. Civil war broke out. John was victorious. Arthur was captured and thrown into prison. John is said to have had the sixteen-year-old boy's eyes put out and then to have murdered him. The king of France made war on John to avenge this alleged murder, and seized nearly all England's French possessions.

John, forced thus to confine his tyranny to his own country, proceeded to make his people's lives miserable. He seized at will the few possessions of the poor and laid heavy taxes on the rich. He insulted and ill-treated the clergy, defying the pope himself. The church thereupon placed an "interdict" on the blackguard and his realm. His holiness also called upon the Christian rulers to unite against John. This last danger scared the cowardly tyrant into submission. But he refused to make his people's hardships lighter.

Then it was that the powerful barons, led by Stephen Langton, archbishop of Canterbury, presented a code of laws for the betterment of the people and for the curbing of oppression. They called this document the Magna Charta (Great Charter). Among other reforms, the charter provided fair trial for every prisoner, authorized the nation to resist unjust royal demands and put the will of the people ahead of a mere king's wishes. The church's liberty was to be respected and no man's possessions were to be wrongfully seized by the crown.

John was asked to sign the Magna Charta. He refused. The barons and the common people combined to force him to sign it. Frightened by their power and his own weakness, John at last consented. Thus was English liberty born and the rights of man were established. John met the barons at a meadow, near Runnymede, on June 15, 1215, saved his vanity by pretending to make a jest of the matter, signed the charter and—safe in his palace—gave way to a fit of maniacal rage.

Though he had been coerced into performing an act of splendid justice by signing the Magna Charta, John had not the faintest idea of keeping his promises to the barons. He called on foreign hired soldiers to help him crush his rebellious subjects. The English retaliated by asking a French prince to come over and be their king.

The land was once more rent by civil war. John showed no mercy to his own country, but desolated and wrecked it wherever his armies could find a foothold. At the climax of the struggle his mind gave way. He sickened and, on October 19, 1216, died. Some historians believe he was poisoned.

A couple of touring cars were in collision Wednesday afternoon on Ridgewood avenue, just south of Orange avenue, a Packard and a Stevens-Duryea, and the drivers had quite a heated argument as to which was at fault in the matter. Both cars were coming north on Ridgewood at the time and the driver of the Packard in passing the other car struck it such a blow as to badly bend the forward axle. The Packard sustained only a damaged hub cap.

EAST COAST WINTER TRAIN SCHEDULE IS NOW IN EFFECT

NEW TRAINS HAVE BEEN PUT ON AND OFFICIALS EXPECT TO HANDLE LARGEST WINTER BUSINESS IN HISTORY.

The winter schedule of trains on the Florida East Coast railroad is now in effect and the new schedule has been prepared by the officials of the road with the view of handling the heaviest business in the history of the road during the next three months.

The winter time card went into effect last Tuesday, but it has taken a couple of days to get the schedule in good working order. The first day the new trains were started south and Wednesday they made their first trips north. Today they are running in both directions on the new times.

The present time card gives Daytona five regular passenger trains and one regular express train in both directions every day. Of special interest this year is the fact through Pullman cars from the west will be operated over the East Coast road.

Between Jacksonville and Miami the Palm Beach limited, Nos. 33 and 34, will be made up of Pullman cars and through Pullman sleepers from Chicago, one via the Seminole Limited and the other via Southern's Florida Limited. The Palm Beach Limited will leave Jacksonville, southbound at 9 o'clock in the morning and arrive in Daytona at 12:50 p. m. Returning from the south the train arrives in Daytona at 3:55 p. m., and reaches Jacksonville at 7:50 p. m.

The Miami Express now leaves Jacksonville as No. 29, southbound, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and arrives in Daytona at 1:48 p. m. Returning as No. 30 it reaches Daytona from the south at 3:21 o'clock in the afternoon and Jacksonville at 7:40.

The Oversea Limited, No. 87, leaves Jacksonville at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving at Daytona at 4:57 o'clock. Returning as No. 88 the train will reach Daytona at 10:39 o'clock in the forenoon and Jacksonville at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Key West Express will leave Jacksonville, No. 37, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening and reaches Daytona at 1:18 in the morning. Returning it arrives in Daytona at 4:55 in the morning and reaches Jacksonville at 9:20 a. m.

The new express train, No. 83, southbound and No. 82, northbound, will carry passengers during the remainder of the season. It will leave Jacksonville at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, reach Daytona at 8:40 o'clock in the evening and New Smyrna at 9:20 o'clock. The train will run only between Jacksonville and New Smyrna, and on the return trip it will leave New Smyrna at 3:45 o'clock in the morning, arrive in Daytona at 4:15 o'clock and reach Jacksonville at 9 o'clock.

Drew the Crowd.

It was the ambition of the proprietor of the moving picture show to get a record house that week. The first two nights he failed to get it. On the third night his unparalleled attractions were advertised thus through a megaphone at the hall door:

"Ladies and gentlemen: Every picture I shall show you tonight has cost the life of a film actor. In the bridge wrecking scene two men were drowned. In the railroad collision one man was crushed to death, and the jungle scene three men were fearfully mangled by wild beasts.

"Reprehensible tactics to mention those harrowing details," said the proprietors of other shows; nevertheless they achieved the manager's purpose, for the next day the house was packed at every performance.

Origin of Cards.

The use of cards is said to have been derived from the Turot cards, which were originally used for occult purposes.

THACKERAY AS A REPORTER

Future Great Novelist Just the Man to Enjoy Such Spicy Repartee as the Following.

Thackeray once acted as police reporter for the London Diogenes, and performed his work in no perfunctory way. How the future novelist must have enjoyed observing and recording this bit of courtroom humor:

Pat Fogarty went off the way from Manchester to London in order to thrash Mick Fitzpatrick, which he did, winding up the performance with the assistance of an "awful horseshoe." He was detected and brought before Mr. Justice Simpleman.

"Well, sir," began the court, "you came here from Manchester, did you?" "Your honor has answered correct." "You see the complainant's head; it was cut by a sharp instrument. Do you know what cut it?"

"Ain't your honor after sayin' that a sharp instrument did?" "I see you mean to equivocate," said the court, becoming restive. "Now, sir, you cut that head; you came here to cut it, did you not? Now, sir, what motive brought you to London?"

"The locomotive, per honor." "Equivocating again, you scoundrel!" said the court, waxing warm. Raising up the horseshoe, and holding it before Pat, he said, "Do you see this horseshoe, sir?"

"Is it a horseshoe, yer honor?" "Don't you see it is, sir? Are you blind? Can you not tell at once that it is a horseshoe?"

"Bedad, no, yer honor." "No?" angrily. "No, yer honor; but can yer self tell?"

"Of course I can, you stupid Irishman."

"Oh, glory be to goodness, see what education is!" soliloquized Pat, aloud. "Sure, yer honor, a poor, ignorant creature like meself wouldn't know a horse's shoe from a mare's."—Youth's Companion.

Soap Bubbles.

The ancient Britons invented soap. The Romans, two thousand years ago, carried the invention back to Italy. They manufactured soap in Savona, whence the French word for it—savon.

There are natural soaps—the soap-wood of Spain, the soapberry of Chili and the bark of the Peruvian soap tree.

At Quartetaro, in Mexico, soap takes the place of copper coinage. The Tierra del Fuegos eat soap, finding the fat therein really nourishing. They say they like the taste, too.

Soap is made from garbage in the newest incinerating plants.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO ABRAHAM LINCOLN

This beautiful memorial to Abraham Lincoln, which has been designed by Henry Bacon of New York, is to be erected in Potomac park, Washington, if the house passes the $3,000,000 appropriation bill which already has been approved by the senate. The building is to be of white marble, and there will be a statue of Lincoln within it.

DESCENDED FROM OLD ADAM

Blue-Eyed, Innocent-Looking Youngster by No Means the Saint He Seemed to Be.

A little incident came up in discussing boys at the Y. M. C. A. the other night that brought forth a story from a man who had once been a director of the Boys' club.

"I was standing in the door of the Boys' club," said he, "extolling the perfect disposition of a little blue-eyed youngster who was sitting in a window a few feet away from us. The woman member of the board of directors to whom I was doing the extolling had remarked how nice the little boy seemed, such a placid face, such pretty blue eyes. She was sure he had a lovely disposition. I agreed with her perfectly. And I might have thought so yet, but for a rude awakening. A small boy leaned out of the window above the model youngster. He had a medicine ball—one of those big leather bags, much like a round football, except that it was stuffed with cotton. The ball had lost most of its filling. Little Algernon or Jimmie, or whatever his name happened to be, leaned out of the window, and taking deadly aim, he dropped the dilapidated ball square on little Blue Eyes' head. The effect was volcanic. Little Boy Blue poured out a string of street English that would have shamed a professional.

"Say, you mutt, I'm after you! When I get up there I'll tear your bloomin' block off!" Then followed a stream of undiluted profanity. I turned sadly to the board member. Both of us were disappointed."—Indianapolis News.

Misdirected Books.

The post office sale of misdirected books, which formed no inconsiderable part of the $10,000 worth of miscellaneous articles disposed of by auction in last year's clearance sale of postal matter of unascertainable ownership, amounted to 1,222 packages.

Nearly every language spoken in our broad land was represented in the collection, which included, as a special curiosity, a Choctaw version of the Book of Psalms. In the entire lot Bibles and books on religious topics predominated.

If more than 1,000 books were misdirected, how many thousands, or perhaps hundreds of thousands, must have been carried by the mails? And how many times that number would be thus carried every year if we had, what many another country has, a thorough-going parcels post system.—Dial.

My Rest Cure.

Commit it to memory or paste it up where your eye will often rest upon it. Apply it daily as often as practicable; make it a part of your daily thought, and, my word for it, that tired feeling will vanish and you will know it no more forever. Your heart, your home, your life will be full of sunshine.

Relax mind and body.
Ease up on every nerve and muscle.
Shut out all unpleasantness.
Throw care to the winds.

If you become tired when reading, writing or in the pursuit of anything requiring mental effort; if the mind seems to lose its activity for a time, its quickness of perception, its power of concentration, it, too, needs a rest or change of activity. The brain, not being a muscular organ, must rely upon bodily activity to draw away the blood that has been used and make room for new.—Los Angeles Times.

Water for Nervousness.

A trained nurse says: "If people would only drink more water they would not be so nervous." Nearly every doctor will recommend a woman who is suffering from nervous prostration or nervous exhaustion to drink lots of water between meals, but many women who do not come under a doctor's care would look better and feel better if they would drink at least a quart of water in the course of the day. Water seems to be a nerve food like good butter. It has a distinctly soothing effect when sipped gradually, as one can test for herself. Water drunk slowly and gradually has somewhat the same quality as deep breathing.

WORLD'S MOST NOTED ECHOES

Some Reproduce Sound in Melodious Manner, Others With an Effect That Is Terrifying.

Probably the finest echo which the world knows is in the cathedral at Pisa, where the Leaning Tower is. Sing two notes and there is no reverberation; sing three and they are at once taken up by the walls of the edifice, swelled, prolonged and varied, till they seem as a divine harmony from some majestic organ.

There is a cavern in Finland in which, if you test your lungs to the top of their capacity, there will answer you such horrible roarings, moanings and mutterings that you will be glad to rush out in absolute terror.

The cutting down of trees in a certain locality on the Hudson river spelt a splendid echo. A word shouted there was repeated 42 times.

Undoubtedly the most extraordinary natural echo in the world is to be heard by the side of a small lake in Bavaria. On one hand rises a perpendicular cliff several thousand feet high, while on the other side is a dense forest. If a pistol is fired on the lake the woods send back a faint echo that gradually dies away, but presently it is heard from the cliff, continually increasing in power, till it bursts over one's head like a deafening peal of thunder.

About a Pair of "Pants."

A Detroit man, who had contributed a bundle of his cast-off clothing for the relief of the victims of a fire, received from one of the sufferers the following note: "The committee man giv me amongst other things wat he called a pare of pants, and 'twould make me pant some to ware 'em. I found your name and where you live on one of the pokies. My wife laffed so when I shode 'em to her that I thot she woud have a contpshun fit. She wants to no if there lives and bresthes a man who has legs no bigger than that. She sed if there was no order be taken up for vagrancy for havin' no visble means of support. I couldnt get 'em on my oldest boy, so I used 'em for gun cases. If you had another pare to spare, my wife would like to get 'em to hang up by the side of the fireplace to keep the tongs in."—Spofford's Library of Wit and Humor.

Varieties of Honey.

A sore throat and a rasping cough led the writer to call in the stores with a view to the purchase of honey. Lemon and honey are extremely soothing, and the overplus of the latter can be used on the breakfast table. The assistant said they had plenty of honey, got it fresh every day. "What honey is it?" asked the man with a sore throat huskily. "Twenty-one cents a pound," replied the salesman, and it came out that he had no notion that there were varieties of honey. His idea was that all honey was English, and he had never heard of Irish honey, let alone of that superb quality that the Connemara bees produce, or of the heather honey or that from the West Indies. Grocers and purchasers should be educated in the various excellences of honey.—London Chronicle.

Queer Beehives.

In the prettily situated mountain village of Hoedel, in Silicia, there are a number of curious beehives. In the shape of life size figures cleverly carved in wood and painted in colors. The figures were carved over a century ago by monks in the Naumburg monastery, who were at that time in possession of a large farm in the district. There are 20 of these strange beehives, and they represent different characters, ranging from Moses to a military officer, a country girl, and a night watchman with a spear. The figures are hollow with the exception of the heads, which are solid, the opening for the bees being in front, in the middle of the figures.—Wide World Magazine.

DATES FROM THE ROMAN ERA

World Conquers Had What Corresponded to Daily Newspaper—The First English Publication.

The first daily newspaper in English appeared in London March 11, 1702, 210 years ago.

News letters and pamphlets printed from time to time when news or politics warranted had been common enough during the latter half of the preceding century, but these were in no sense newspapers.

The first "daily" was, called The Daily Courant, and was published by E. Mallet, "against the Ditch at Fleet bridge"—close by the site of the present London Times office. The paper was only a single sheet of two columns. It professed to give only foreign news with the name of the foreign source.

So keen was the publisher to steer clear of any responsibility for his news, and to hide himself and his views in the background, that he says in his first issue in so many words he will make no comments of his own, "supposing other people to have sense enough to make reflections for themselves."

The Daily Courant, which lasted until 1735, may be said to be the first daily newspaper in anything like the modern sense. Yet the Romans had a publication called Daily Happenings (Acta Diurna) which noted the movements of the armies and elections, games, sacrifices or wonders of the town. These were written out by special officers, deposited in the state archives, and copies posted about the city. A few circulated privately. A Roman satirist describes a lady looking over the news in the morning.

Recent "Finds" in Egypt.

Among the lesser finds recorded are several portrait statues, some in limestone and wood and others in gold alloyed with silver. The last are of great beauty, as are the many necklaces, rings, and toilet sets here figured. A razor of copper was found, still sharp, and with a double edge, one side being made concave, as Mr. Howard Carter suggests, for shaving the head and face, and the other convex, for the armpits and other hollows of the body. There is also a board for playing the game of hounds and jackals, which Mr. Carter has reconstructed in the most ingenious way, and which seems to have been a kind of backgammon, the different moves being determined by throws of dice. These all came from the earlier tombs.

Minute Men.

The so-called organization of Minute Men came into existence shortly before the outbreak of the Revolution. The patriots of Massachusetts and other New England colonies banded themselves together, obtained arms and pledged themselves to the defense of the colonies "at a minute's notice." From this pledge to take up arms "at a minute's notice" they got their name.

The Minute Men were enrolled in pursuance of the act of the Provincial congress, which was passed on November 23, 1774. Many names that were destined to become famous in the Revolution appeared in this roster of patriots. In the beginning they were expected to serve only in the New England colonies but when the conflict came no thought was taken of this. The Massachusetts Historical society has a list of the patriots who were enrolled as Minute Men.

His Definition.

A southern congressman recently met, for the first time in some years, an old dandy who was formerly in the representative's service. During their converse the congressman learned the interesting fact that his old servant had, in his advanced age, learned to read.

"Well, now, Sam," remarked the former master, "that makes things interesting for you, doesn't it? You should find pleasant companionship in books and papers."

"Yessah," oracularly assented the old man. "Readin' is shore a great thing sah. I has given de matter considerable consideration, sah, an' I is prepared to say, sah, dat readin' is de power of hearin' with de eyes."

INTERESTING RIDES AND DRIVES POINTS WORTH VISITING

OCEAN BEACH—excellent motoring north for 10 miles and south 14 miles to Mosquito inlet and the Government lighthouse at Ponce Park. The beach is the most magnificent in the world.

BEED, KNOX & BEED ORANGE GROVE—18 miles, via Ormond, is one of the largest groves in Volusia county and is well worth seeing; can be reached by motor over fairly good road; can also be reached by boat.

NUMBER NINE ORANGE GROVE—a large grove, passed on the way to the Beed, Knox & Beed grove, is 12 miles from Daytona.

NEW SMYRNA—16 miles from Daytona, over an excellent hard surface road; this drive is said to be the prettiest in the state. At New Smyrna are the ruins of an ancient fort and other historical spots, left by the colony of Andrew Turnbull.

OLD SPANISH MISSION—2 miles west of New Smyrna, reached by motor over good road. This mission is without authentic history but by many it is contended that this is the church built by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.

SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles west of Port Orange and about 8 miles from Daytona; the machinery is still in a good state of preservation, although the mill is presumed to have been built and operated by the early Spanish settlers.

GOVERNMENT LIGHTHOUSE—at Ponce Park, 12 miles from Daytona is reached by boat or by motor on the ocean beach.

MAMMOTH TREE—4 miles from Daytona; an abnormally large tree; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

DELAND—25 miles from Daytona; the county seat of Volusia county and seat of John B. Stetson university; a very picturesque city; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

TOMOKA RIVER—The scenic stream of Florida; reached by excursion boats which leave Daytona daily and run to the navigable head of the stream, 26 miles from the city. Generally a number of alligators may be seen in their native haunts. This is a trip no tourist should miss.

DELEON SPRINGS, 28 miles from Daytona; mammoth spring that throws out thousands of gallons of water a minute; a delightful bathing pool, and picturesque scenery. Spring is situated in an old plantation. Reached by motor over good road; a nice trip for a picnic party.

OAK HILL—hamlet, 10 miles south of New Smyrna; several orange groves in the locality; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

ORMOND—six miles from Daytona; here is located the Ormond hotel and a pretty town; nearby are the ruins of Spanish sugar mills.

TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pottery and other antiquities have been discovered in excavating the shell.

PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-surfaced road; or the trip one way may be made by the road and crossing the St. Johns river on the Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.

CLARENDON GOULD LINKS—2 miles from Daytona, and immediately north of the hotel Clarendon at Seabrook; the links are now in good condition. The Hotel Clarendon bears the distinction of being the only fireproof winter tourist hotel in the world.

GENERALLY, you may motor in any direction from Daytona and find places and objects of interest which your driver can explain to you; there are many by-roads through the sylvan vegetation that a visitor will greatly enjoy.

CLEVER MEN

CHIEF FLYNN HAS BUSY TIME

TRACING DOWN LAWBREAKERS

HEAD OF SECRET SERVICE DE-

PARTMENT HAS THE ASSIS-

TANCE OF A LARGE NUMBER OF

EFFICIENT MEN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Chief Wm.

Flynn, head of the secret service bureau of the United States, probably has more different persons trying to get ahead of him than any other individual in this country.

Just as he "finishes up" a gang of counterfeiters, who have been defrauding merchants by notes prepared with paper made by a new process, he is required to run down

some individual believed to be conspiring against the government's civil welfare. Having caught that person he goes on the trail of a wonderfully clever gang of "moonshine" distillers. Then he gallops forth to catch a smuggler.

Of course the chief does not do all of this himself. He has a band of highly efficient men, most of them trained by years of experience and these men are in turn aided by counteless "operatives" or "shadows" who are the trackers of the service.

It was only a little while ago that

Chief Wilkie, the present head's predecessor, unearthed one of the neatest smuggling schemes devised since

Collector Loeb of New York shut down on imposition at that port.

United States importers, of a certain brand, sent stylishly dressed women abroad with money to buy the latest

"creations" in Paris and London.

These women returned to Canada,

and after remaining there a short time came into this country by one of the border ports and claimed non-residents' privileges on the ground that the clothes they brought were for personal use during a long visit to friends in the United States.

Once the women were safely in this country they went to New York and deposited their stock in the ware room of some importer. These cases

finally became so numerous that Chief

Wilkie ordered one of his men to follow a fair Canadian "visitor." The "visitor" went to Boston and there disposed of a portion of her wares

before continuing her trip to New York. She never continued. As soon as the destination of the garment was established she was arrested and others of her kind were followed.

The practice of "visiting" the United States was broken up speedily after that.

Not long ago a number of secret

serviced men were sent to a little hill town in South Carolina from whence came apparently unlimited quantities of "moonshine" whiskey. Though it was well known that the whiskey was being made without paying the tax it had proved virtually impossible to apprehend the makers. None of the residents in the town would tell a thing. The only hope of a visitor was to go from house to house

through the wilds of the mountains

until he located the still—and then he stood an excellent chance of having his body shipped back to Washington by express.

As previous attempts to apprehend

the violators of the law had failed

the chief of the secret service ordered that.

Each home consists of a single room,

absolutely devoid of furniture, one or

two drinking jars and cooking utensils

being usually the only articles to be seen. The roofs of these hovels are thatched with cornstalks, and for some unaccountable reason all the household rubbish is dumped on the roof.

For this purpose a ladder may frequently be seen reclining against the side of the house. From a distance a village is apt to look like an immense rubbish heap. These primitive structures are inhabited solely by the following, as Egyptian peasants are called.

In some of the Arab villages the arrangements for sleeping are even more unconventional. Huge cuplike structures made of mud are built out in the open, away from the houses, and into these the babies are frequently placed during the day, and often the entire family sleep in them at night. The idea is to escape the numerous snakes and scorpions which abound during the great heat of the summer.

The Valley of Death is on the island of Java. It is the most remarkable natural example of an atmosphere

loaded with carbonic acid gas in existence. It has never been fully explored because of the danger of remaining more than a few moments in its poisonous atmosphere.

Approached through an opening between the hills, it is seen to be an oval shaped valley about half a mile across.

It is about thirty-five feet deep. The bottom is hard and sandy, without vegetation and strewn with large stones. The surface is covered with the bones of animals, birds and human beings.

Explorers seldom venture beyond the borders, though the deadly air does not immediately affect human beings. This is because the carbonic acid gas, being heavier than the atmosphere, settles to the bottom of the valley. Dogs and fowls thrown into it fall senseless instantly and die in a few minutes. No craters or fissures are visible on the floor of this valley, and it is thought that the openings are near the base of the hills.—Exchange.

To Cheer Him.

The wife of his bosom was going to leave him for a fortnight, and Fitz-

Tomkins was trying his very best to look sad.

"My dear," he said, choking back a chuckle with his handkerchief and winning his eyes, "I hardly like to think how I shall miss you. The evenings will be so long and lonely without you.

I shall have no one to talk to."

"George," said Mrs. Fitz, surveying him with a marble eye, "I have provided for your comfort in this as in every other way. When you return home you will find dear mother there.

She will remain till I come back and keep you company in the evenings.

George."

And as the train slowly glided out of the station the guard wondered why

Fitz-Tomkins nearly bit him when he insinuated a tip.—London Telegraph.

Ireland's Coast Cliffs.

The finest cliff scenery in the United Kingdom is on the coast of the county of Donegal, at the northwest of Ireland, facing the Atlantic, where the variety and grandeur of the cliffs are most thrilling and impressive. Slieve

League, south of Glen Columbkille, is a superb introduction to Donegal's coast splendors. In less than half a mile from the sea the mountain rears its height of nearly 2,000 feet. In the island of Achill, off the west coast of Ireland, the cliffs of Croghan, at Achill Head, rise sheer from the water's edge to the dizzy height of 3,000 feet.—London Standard.

Defrauding the Waiter.

In a Parisian cafe an American ordered a hors d'oeuvre, sole, agneau

pre sale, artichoke salad, peche Melba,

and so on, and when the waiter brought him a bill of 30 francs he paid

it like a man. After his change was brought he counted it and pushed a franc toward the waiter for a tip. But the man, pushing back the franc, said

in gentle reproach:

"Pardon, monsieur, but that is the counterfeit franc."

Comforting.

paired while I'm laid up. Mrs. Grim-didn't yer better wait and see 'ow ye such work with staircase wall papers."

Hard to Please.

"Why did she divorce her first husband?"

"He couldn't keep his money."

"And why is she suing her present husband for divorce?"

"He's such a tightwad."—Houston

VILLAGE LIFE IN EGYPT.

Crude Mud Houses, the Roofs of

Which Are Garbage Dumps.

Egyptian village life is quaint and interesting, says the Wide World Magazine. The houses are crude, one storied structures of sun baked mud, with possibly a couple of tiny square holes cut in the wall for ventilation.

Each home consists of a single room,

absolutely devoid of furniture, one or

two drinking jars and cooking utensils

being usually the only articles to be

A. NO. 1 IS STILL ALIVE

WRITES TO MR. LUDWIG.

Geo. H. Ludwig is in receipt of a letter from A. No. 1, the champion tramp of the world, whose death has been frequently reported in the press of the country and as often denied.

It would appear that A. No. 1 is now at the head of a publishing company issuing several books written on tramp life by this prince of hoboes and including "The Curse of Tramp Life," "Hobo Camp Fire Tales," and "Life and Adventures of A. No. 1."

The letter received by Mr. Ludwig is written from Cambridge Springs, Pa., and is as follows:

"These lines are merely to remind you that your old friend has not forgotten the days not so very long ago when the late Mrs. Ludwig used to feed him at the back door."

"I know more about riding East Coast trains than writing a bucking typewriter."

"Are there any of my signs visible?"

"Wishing you, Mr. and Mrs. Foote and all my other friends a Happy New Year, I am, sir,

"Yours truly,

*WANTED—A young man to spend the winter on Merritt's island homestead. For full particulars address 42 Bay street. 32-2t

*You are cordially invited to inspect my line of spring hats which have just arrived. M. Ella DeVoy.

S. A. Lowe died Wednesday night at about 11 o'clock of heart trouble, at the home of his son in Holly Hill. The deceased was 75 years of age. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence in Holly Hill, Rev. J. L. Pattillo, of Port Orange, officiating, and the interment will be made in Pinewood cemetery.

LIKE THE WAIL OF BANSHEE

Mournful Cry of the Screech-Owl Heard in Youth. Plainly Recalled in After Years.

From the orchard, too, on an autumn midnight, comes the mournful whistle of a screech-owl. Most of us who have heard the screech-owl at all have heard its call drifting down from an old orchard on a frosty October night. The chill of coming winter, the cattle stamping in dark stables, a dim and ghostly world stretching over garnered fields to the mystery of the woods, and a gnarled, ancient orchard up the slope seem phantasmalike under a waning moon—these are the setting for the screech-owl's mournful whistle. I can at this moment shut my eyes, reproduce that whistle in my throat, and bring back to memory as if it were yesterday, the scene as my boyhood eyes saw it from my chamber window, whence I peeped with frosted breath before diving into bed, and I can actually smell (for all the tobacco smoke in my present study) the peculiar odor of the cold October night air, and feel again a vague, almost terrifying melancholy chill in my heart as, in the darkness, I heard from the orchard that reiterated whoo-oo-oo-oo. Like the whip-poor-will on the pasture fall on a hot evening of July, this other night-singer of New England seems to dwell just on the skirts of human habitations and to keep our souls reminded of the sadness of the world—Walter Prichard Eaton, in Harper's Bazar.

Staying Power of Irish Butter.

Irish butter, which is engaging the attention of the house of lords, has staying powers. In 1906 some men cutting turf near Killybeg found a tub containing about two hundredweight of butter buried deep in a bog. From the style in which the tub was made it was surmised that the butter was over 100 years old. Yet, owing to the use of some preservative, it was not absolutely uneatable, though somewhat rancid. Similar deposits have been found in other parts of Ireland, some wrapped in cloth which on exposure to the air crumbled to dust. It is supposed that the preservative powers of peat soil were known to the Irish in very early days, and that during the summer they buried butter for use in the winter.—London Chronicle.

NAME OF BIPLANE PASSENGER WILL BE GIVEN TOMORROW

DAILY NEWS HAS BEEN BESIEGED WITH APPLICATIONS FROM PERSONS WHO WANT TO TAKE THE RIDE.

The Daily News has been besieged with applications from persons who desire to make the first flight with Miss Ruth Law as a passenger in her Wright biplane from the beach next Sunday, Miss Law having extended to this newspaper the privilege of selecting the person who will be her passenger on her initial flight at this place.

The name of the person who will take the flight with Miss Law will be announced in the Daily News tomorrow afternoon, and everybody is cordially invited to go to the beach to witness the flying exhibition.

Because Miss Law wishes to try out the air currents and investigate air conditions both over the peninsula and ocean, she will make an altitude of at least 1,000 feet on this flight and has requested that the Daily News does not select a woman for this first flight because of her plan to make such a high altitude. She prefers a man as a passenger, and a man with plenty of nerve, because a man is less liable to get excited in such a high altitude.

The flight Sunday afternoon, as well as the daily flights throughout the remainder of the season, will be made from the beach in front of the Clarendon hotel.

Watch the Daily News tomorrow for the name of the man who will be Miss Law's passenger Sunday afternoon.

*The place to spend your evenings—P. C. Rodgers.

H. F. Greenleaf of Boston, Mass., a regular winter visitor in this city for many years, arrived Wednesday evening and is located as usual at Mrs. E. A. Barker's on South Ridgewood avenue and taking his meals at the Ridgewood hotel.

*Don't forget Hatte can satisfy the inner man.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Vincent of West Orange, N. J., who are occupying their cottage on Loomis avenue, have as their guests for the winter Mrs. Lemuel Jacobus and sons, Masters Carey and Lemuel, of Verona, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of East Orange, N. J., have been spending the week's end with Mr. and Mrs. Vincent.

*Our picture plays are the best that money can procure—The Arcade.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rowlander arrived Wednesday evening from Woodland, Mich., and will spend a month or more here with Mr. Rowlander's brother, C. W. Rowlander, and wife, who are located for the season at C. L. Harvey's, 51 First avenue. Messrs. Rowlander are engaged in the stock and grain business in the north under the title of Rowlander Brothers.

*Our pictures entertain as well as instruct you—THE ARCADE.

At the regular monthly meeting of St. Mary's guild, held at the guild hall on Orange avenue, Monday afternoon, officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. L. O. Balcom; vice president, Mrs. Clementine Roberts; secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Gardiner; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Niver. Mrs. Niver was re-elected to the last named office, which she has held for a number of years.

*The Arcade moving picture theater is now open and showing nothing but the best pictures obtainable.

The general theme for the week of prayer service being held by several churches of the city is "The Human Will." The meeting last evening was at the First M. E. church and tonight will be held at the Christian church, South Palmetto avenue.

*We offer nothing but the best in picture plays—THE ARCADE.

David Karrick returned Wednesday afternoon from Eau Gallie, where he has been engaged for the past two months or more in remodeling and enlarging a building at that place for his sons, Jesse and Wilbur, and rejoined Mrs. Karrick at their home on North Beach street. The young men are engaged in the photographic business at Eau Gallie and are doing well, Mr. Karrick says.

*We buy and sell Antique jewelry. The Colonial Shop, 84 S. Beach St. 31-2t

Thos. H. White, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Holden and Mr. O'Connor are making a trip to St. Augustine on board Mr. White's boat, the Betty. They expect to be gone for about a week and Mrs. White may join them at St. Augustine and return with them. Capt. Mahoney took the Betty up to the head of the river Tuesday, being accompanied that far by W. E. Blodgett, while the other members of the party made the trip to the head of the river by automobile Wednesday morning and joined the Betty.
